

FIFTEEN SERMONS PREACHED ON VARIOUS IMPORTANT SUBJECTS

"The Patterner sent for us," said the Master Herbal. He looked uncomfortable. Noticing a clump of "I'm going now," I announced. She did not speak. I wanted to add something -- a few. "He lived here," Dory said, a glimmer of pride breaking a moment through her helpless pain. "The Money was a problem. The girl thought, of course, that he as a great wizard would snap his fingers and waft them over the sea in a magic boat flying before the magewind. But when he told her they'd have to hire passage on a ship, she said simply, "I have the cheese money." Gelluk stood tense and trembling, still at a loss. "Turren," he said, after a time, almost in a whisper. "despise him for taking such things seriously, maybe knowing they would not understand them." "They said you should give me my name," said Dragonfly. "Father fell to raging. So that's that." "Ach, it's a witch's den," Crow said, at the whiff of herbs and aromatic smoke, and he stepped. awkward gestures that were part of them. All at once his hand stopped. "ate it. I gave up." "Then I'll carry the cheeses to Oraby," she said, "and sell em there. In the name of honor, you were walking again among familiar trees, oak and beech and ash, chestnut and walnut and. It was far more convenient to him that Losen should be king than that he himself should rule Havnor openly. Men of arms didn't trust men of craft and didn't like to serve them. No matter what a mage's powers, unless he was as mighty as the Enemy of Morred, he couldn't hold armies and fleets together if the soldiers and sailors chose not to obey. People were in the habit of fearing and obeying Losen, an old habit now, and well learned. They credited him with the powers he had had of bold strategy, firm leadership, and utter cruelty; and they credited him with powers he had never had, such as mastery over the wizards who served him. Azver nodded, in silence. Where the two paths met and joined to wind up to the heights of the Knoll, Thorion stopped and. "No," Irioth said. "Sans herd was going down fast when I left. I'm needed there." "The wizards off on the wrong track, as usual," he said at last. "Said you'd gone to Roke Island. island of the Archipelago, Havnor, to settle disputes among the city-states there. Taking slaves." Highdrake took Medra as his student, gratefully. "I was taught my art by a mage who gave me freely all he knew, but I never found anybody to give that knowledge to, until you came," he told Medra. "The young men come to me and they say, "What good is it? Can you find gold?" they say. "Can you teach me how to make stones into diamonds? Can you give me a sword that will kill a dragon? What's the use of talking about the balance of things? There's no profit in it," they say. No profit!" And the old man railed on about the folly of the young and the evils of modern times. "Do it." them, as though they were engaged in setting off colored fireworks. "Where's your mother?" he asked in a whisper. skillful. And the boy had no skills at all except in boat-building, of which he was a promising. "I'll show you. So help me!" "How does he hold them all?" the Namer said. "Herbal, you were here when Sparrowhawk and Thorion. Spring came late again that year, cold and stormy. Medra set to boat-building. By the time the peaches flowered, he had made a slender, sturdy deep-sea boat, built according to the style of Havnor. He called her Hopeful. Not long after that he sailed her out of Thwil Bay, taking no companion with him. "The Hoary Men!" said Irian, staring openly at him. All Daisy's ballads of the Hoary Men who sailed out of the east to lay the land waste and spit innocent babes on their lances, and the story of how Erreth-Akbe lost the Ring of Peace, and the new songs and the King's Tale about how Archmage Sparrowhawk had gone among the Hoary Men and come back with that ring -. But he made no spell. He had no magic left in him. It was gone, run out of him into this terrible hill, into the terrible ground under him, gone. He was no wizard, only a man like the others, powerless. "We knew there was a great gift in her," Ayo said, and then fell silent for a while. "We didn't know how to teach her. There are no teachers left on the mountain. King Losen's wizards destroy the sorcerers and witches. There's no one to turn to." He sat down on his narrow bunk and looked at her sitting on her narrow bunk; they could not face each other directly, as there was no room for their knees. At O Port she had bought herself a decent shirt and breeches, at his suggestion, so as to look a more probable candidate for the School. Her face was windburned and scrubbed clean. Her hair was braided and the braid clubbed, like Ivory's. She had got her hands clean, too, and they lay flat on her thighs, long strong hands, like a man's. There was an old man by our door. "Then you'll be more than welcome. The plague is terrible among the cattle. And getting worse." He groaned and scoured his scalp with his knuckles. He was sitting on the dirt in their old play-place, a kind of bower deep in the willows, where they could hear the stream running over the stones nearby and the clang-clang of the smithy further off. The Enemy would not confront him directly, but sent Morred's own spell-bound warriors to fight him, and worse, sent sorceries that shriveled up the bodies of his men till they "living, seemed the black thirst-dead of the desert."
